Ideas for Knitting Small Blankets for Cats at Your Local Shelter

By Audrey Knight

Chances are, your local animal shelter houses a lot of cats and kittens waiting to be placed in good homes. Knitted blankets for their cages or cubbies give them something warm and comfortable to curl up on.

Here, I've put together some ideas for making little blankets. I've paired yarn weights with stitch patterns that knit up into thick, cushioned blankies. They are quick and easy to make, perfect for social knitting with friends, or as a project for a beginner. I'll add to the stitch and project list as time goes on and I come across more stitch patterns that work well with bulky and super bulky yarns. I've tried a bunch of different yarns, and have narrowed the list down to the ones that I tested and that have worked well so far. I'll add to the list as I find yarns that work out.

Cat blankets should be made from yarn that is machine washable and dryable. (Please note, some of these yarns specify machine dry low; it might be best to experiment first with these to see if they will stand up to machine wash on higher heat too.) The best yarns will be smooth (so the cats' claws don't get caught), plied (for durability) and not too scratchy. To give the blankets enough thickness, the cats and I found super bulky to be the ideal weight for simple stitch patterns. Bulky works well for super-dense stitch patterns.

The stitch pattern should allow the blanket to lie flat.

Needles need to be circular, since straights aren't long enough.

SUGGESTED YARNS

NOTE: I recommend machine washing and machine drying your cat bed once before donating it. When washing, give the blankets a final rinse so there's no soap residue that can irritate their skin. In the dryer it's good to avoid any kind of softeners that might leave chemicals behind.

FINISHED MEASUREMENTS (after washing and drying):

Note: In a shelter environment, the cat blanket may need to fit into the bottom of a cage. The size might vary depending on how your shelter will use the blanket, but a good starting point is:

15" x 20" or the size that fits your local shelter's cages or cubbies.

STITCH PATTERNS

Notes:

1. All of these stitch patterns lie flat.
2. The stitch patterns give a cushioned effect to protect the cat from the hard cage floor, and for the ideal snuggle factor.
3. It may sound silly to do a gauge swatch for a cat blanket, but I recommend doing one anyway to make sure you get the thickness you want. A denser fabric, achieved by going down a needle size, may be preferable to the gauge listed by the manufacturer. Once you do a swatch you like, you can then determine the number of stitches you'll need to cast on.
4. Always cast on loosely. While some people do this by casting on to a needle size larger, I prefer to use the needle size I'll be using for the project, leaving a good amount of space between the stitches as I cast them on.

STITCH PATTERNS THAT WORK WELL WITH BULKY YARN

These patterns offer more density than the patterns for the super bulky yarns. They're ideally suited for bulky weight yarn, making blankets that have plenty of warmth and cushioning against hard cage bottoms.

Double Density (Barbara Walker calls this one "Double Knit Fabric" in book):

Using needle 2 sizes smaller than what the ball band calls for, firmly cast on an odd number of stitches.

Row 1: k1, *sl1 wyib, k1; rep from * to end.

Row 2: K1, *p1, k1; rep from * to end.

Repeat Rows 1 and 2 until desired length, ending with a Row 1.

This stitch pattern requires a specific bind off, otherwise it will flare badly.

From WS loosely bind off as follows: K1, * p2tog, pass 1st st on right-hand needle over this st; rep from * to end.

Deliver your blankets to your local shelter. It might be a good idea to call them ahead of time and find out whether they want blankets, and if so what sizes would fit in their cages.

If you're in Northeast Ohio, the fabulous shelter Rescue Village in Geauga County will gladly take your blankets. Please bring them by the shelter during their normal operating hours. You can check here (<http://www.geaugahumane.org/#!contact-us/coyx>) for current hours and contact numbers, or phone them at (440) 338-4819.

Sidebars give hints about how to modify the patterns for your own creativity. Inspiration abounds in this book, which scarf knitters will turn to again and again.

I encourage knitters to purchase my book through their local yarn store. It is also available through Amazon, Barnes and Noble, Knit Picks and many other online sources. Also available digitally.
